Abstracts

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the rate of growth in e-commerce retail current value sales slowed slightly during 2020 but remained vigorous. While the economic shock of the pandemic led many local consumers to rein in their discretionary spending, the fact that many consumers found it much more difficult to shop in person due to restrictions on movement led some to try online shopping for the first time. Growth in e-commerce was also buoyed by the fact that a growing number of Kenyan con...
