Abstracts

The impact of the inflation crisis and of the spike in raw material prices had a huge impact on edible oils in both 2022 and 2023. Products such as rapeseed oil and sunflower oil experienced extreme price increases in 2022, while olive oil suffered from a similar situation in 2023. In this context, with other living costs also rising, consumers became very price sensitive, shifting towards the less expensive edible oils categories, and becoming quite attentive to promotional activity.
