According to Euromonitor International's Lifestyles Survey 2021, a sixth of respondents said they were allergic or intolerant to certain foods, which was slightly higher than the level globally. According to the survey, there is also a significant population that chooses to be vegan – over a fifth of respondents. The survey also reports a notable proportion of the population to be living with diabetes. All this data indicates that there is no one-glove-fits-all approach that manufacturers can ta...
