Abstracts

Retail volume sales of headphones have decelerated over the review period, with growth slowing substantially in 2023. Demand for headphones is closely connected to that of smartphones, which suffered a decline in 2023 as consumers put off new phone purchases. Consumers have been constrained by the rising cost of living. On the other hand, there are strong replacement sales in headphones, as well as first-time buyers that switched from wireless earphones or headphones to TWS earbuds.
