Abstracts

In 2022, health and beauty specialists saw their retail value sales return to growth after two years of decline. During the COVID-19 pandemic, demand for beauty products such as make-up and cosmetics strongly declined in 2020, and continued to decline in 2021. Indeed, restrictions on mobility, more time at home during lockdowns and reduced social and formal occasions rendered many of these products as less essential. As a result, beauty specialist retailers performed badly in both 2020 and 2021.

Euromonitor International's Health and Beauty Specialists in Belgium report offers insight into key trends and developments driving the industry. The report examines all retail channels to provide sector insight. Channels include hypermarkets, supermarkets, discounters, convenience stores, mixed retailers, health and beauty retailers, clothing and footwear retailers, furniture and furnishing stores, DIY and hardware stores, durable goods retailers, leisure and personal goods retailers. There are profiles of leading retailers, with analysis of their performance and the challenges they face. There is also analysis of non-store retailing: vending; homeshopping; internet retailing; direct selling, as available.

Product coverage: Beauty Specialists, Health and Personal Care Stores, Optical Goods Stores, Pharmacies.

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
