Abstracts

Health and wellness tourism was one of the two categories which led Hungarian tourism in 2013 in terms of value growth, and was a trend setter. While travel purpose of leisure activities and VFR (Visiting Friends and Relatives) showed a large decline according to the Central Statistical Office, health preservation related domestic trips showed growth compared to 2012. This indicates a steady rise in domestic popularity of such services. Among arrivals however, lower growth could be seen...
