Abstracts

Spas recorded 14% current value growth in 2013. This growth was lower than industry expectations, which resulted in a lower boost to health and wellness tourism than expected. Despite rising disposable incomes, poor economic conditions had quite a significant impact on health and wellness tourism. This was further worsened by the very high prices of these services, which made them unaffordable for majority of consumers. Most consumers preferred to opt for a day spa outlet, rather than those...
