Abstracts

Home products specialists experienced current value sales declines in 2022, driven by home improvement and gardening stores and home and home furnishing stores. This resulted in notable declines for leading home improvement and gardening brands such as B&Q, Screwfix and Wickes following a surge in sales the previous year. Local consumers had saved up money that they could not spend on travel for instance, during the lockdowns in the UK, and due to prolonged time at home, there was a greater desire to spend on home improvement and gardening. Euromonitor International's Home Products Specialists in United Kingdom report offers insight into key trends and developments driving the industry. The report examines all retail channels to provide sector insight. Channels include hypermarkets, supermarkets, discounters, convenience stores, mixed retailers, health and beauty retailers, clothing and footwear retailers, furniture and furnishing stores, DIY and hardware stores, durable goods retailers, leisure and personal goods retailers. There are profiles of leading retailers, with analysis of their performance and the challenges they face. There is also analysis of non-store retailing: vending; homeshopping; internet retailing; direct selling, as available.
