Abstracts

The domestic production of hot drinks continues to be hampered by shortages of major raw materials and inputs, which causes an irregular presence of products and brands. Buyers cannot find many of their preferred products, which has led to a decline of sales and a loss of brand loyalty. Imports of coffee are monopolised by the government while tea imports are purchased at the black market exchange rate, making them unaffordable to the majority of Venezuelans.

Euromonitor International's Hot Drinks in Venezuela report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level. It provides the latest retail sales data 2013-2017, allowing you to identify the sectors driving growth.
