Abstracts

High protein products in the dairy category became increasingly popular as consumers prioritised their health and wellness in 2022. This trend was initially fuelled by the COVID-19 pandemic and heightened awareness of the connection between diet and overall health. As a result, Dutch consumers sought out food options that offered high protein, fibre, and omega-3, leading to an increase in sales of high protein dairy products. However, in 2022 there were some initial signs that the high protein t...
