Abstracts

The Mexican information and communications industry carried on a growth path during 2018. The country's ICT companies primarily generated higher revenue from growing adoption of digital solutions in the corporate sector, and the rising popularity of internet services among Mexicans. Overall, the internet-connected population in Mexico expanded by 6% to 76 million over 2018, with mobile internet connectivity posting particularly strong growth, with the user count jumping by 10%. In addition, the...
