Abstracts

In the development of the government's national health insurance programme (under BPJS), Kimia Farma will continue to closely work in providing both pharmaceutical drugs and health clinics to the members of BPJS across Indonesia. 253 clinics of Kimia Farma were working with BPJS by 2014 and the number will continue to grow across the forecast period. The expansion is in line with Kimia Farma's strategy to become the leading health service network and to provide public health solutions in...
