Abstracts

Consumers spent even more time than normal using a variety of digital devices during lockdown when they were required to work or study from home which can be damaging to the eyes. However, under the Movement Control Orders (MCO) enforced by the Malaysian government, standalone and optical stores were forced to close between 18 March and 4 May 2020. As a result, optical stores such as Sunglass Hut, Optical 88 and Focus Point were not in operation for almost two months as they were considered non-...

LUXURY EYEWEAR IN MALAYSIA

KEY DATA FINDINGS

2021 DEVELOPMENTS

Despite prolonged exposure to digital devices and subsequent boost to luxury spectacle frames, the ongoing presence of the virus slows industry recovery in 2021

Limited travel and home-based lifestyles and subsequent decimation of impulse purchases hamper category sales in 2021

Industry players and retailers engage in discounting in order to make their brands more enticing and to shift old stock

PROSPECTS AND OPPORTUNITIES

Strong recovery for luxury eyewear from 2022 onwards

Consumers continue to favour bricks and mortar distribution channels although e-commerce sees further growth through the development and progression of virtual try-on technology

Industry recovers as society resumes normality though discounts remain a crucial marketing strategy as both consumers and industry players recover from the economic fallout from the pandemic
