Abstracts

In 2021 and 2022, the Brazilian economy faced many challenges related to inflation, and most consumers lost purchasing power. According to the Brazilian Forum for Food Sovereignty and Food and Nutritional Security, Brazil reverted to levels of hunger registered back in the 1990s, with almost 60% of the population living with some level of food insecurity. Global conflicts such as the war in Ukraine (one of the largest producers of staple grains and fertilisers) impacted international supply chain.
