Abstracts

The laundry industry has been addicted to stereotypes, one from the 1950s housewife, the other dating back to cavemen. Both create female-exclusive product targeting with little thought to “masculine” laundry. This delayed the industry’s recognition of a quiet revolution taking place at home. Traditional gender roles are breaking down, replaced by task partnerships and proud male chore owners. First reactions include male-exclusive product targeting, but a gender-inclusive approach is needed.

Euromonitor International's Men Who Clean: Shaking Up Gender Roles in Home Care – Part II global briefing offers an insight into to the size and shape of the Home Care market, highlights buzz topics, emerging regions, countries and categories as well as pressing industry issues and white spaces. It identifies the opportunity zones within home care, analyses leading companies and brands and offers strategic analysis of major factors influencing the market - be they new product developments, packaging/format /ingredients innovations, economic/lifestyle/environmental influences, distribution or retail pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and criteria for success.
