Abstracts

2018 continued to demonstrate growth in the share of mobile internet retailing in value terms, accounting for a fifth of all sales. The growth of mobile applications was mostly for two reasons. The first was that consumers, most often in big cities, due to the faster pace of life, got used to carrying out tasks on-the-go. Shopping on-the-go allows consumers to save time and money, and is becoming an essential part of city life. The second reason was that retailers actively created and developed...
