Abstracts

Smartphones witnessed further volume decline in 2023, although the drop was far less severe than the dramatic downturn seen in 2022. The average unit price of smartphones more than doubled during 2022, with a further 25% increase expected during 2023. The higher prices are deterring new smartphone purchases, as households struggle with higher costs of living. The phenomenal price rises of brand new smartphones has fuelled demand for used smartphones and spare parts. However, this trend has simul...
