Abstracts

Innovation in cigarettes is a vital element in maintaining consumer perceptions of international brands, whilst boosting value sales in the face of falling volumes and increasing the share of premium brands. Innovation in pack type, pack size, lower tar, superslims, carbon filters and flavour capsules are some of the prevalent trends appearing in all price bands, as manufacturers ensure a good product mix and adopt pricing strategies which allow them to shift sub-brands between price bands.

Euromonitor International's New Product Development in Cigarettes: Innovate or Fail – Keeping Price in Power global briefing offers an insight into to the size and shape of the Tobacco market, highlighting major industry trends and categories as well as the factors affecting operating environment. It identifies the leading companies and brands, offers impartial, strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market - be they new product developments, legislative restrictions or pricing influences. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and where it is headed.
