Abstracts

There has been a shift from invoicing to card payment, in order to avoid liquidity problems. Given the delay in the resumption of international travel, fear has spread among travel companies regarding the repayment of government loans taken in 2020 to deal with the unprecedented demand for refunds on cancelled trips. The government initially offered support for these businesses in the form of loans with a maximum term of six years at interest rates of up to 3.8%. However, few can afford to take...
