Abstracts

During 2020, the government of Peru implemented a number of measures to limit the spread of COVID-19, including several months of lockdown restrictions, where residents were forced to remain at expect for essential travel in order to limit the transmission of the virus in the community. The introduction of the lockdown period saw a spike in demand for essential packaged food items. The most in demand foods in Peru in 2020 were flours and sausages, followed by instant noodles and dehydrated soups...
