Abstracts

Retail current value sales of packaged food in Tunisia was relatively stable in the face of COVID-19 during 2020, reflecting the fundamental inelasticity of demand for these products. With the exception of hypermarkets, which were forced to close for a brief period, grocery retail outlets have continued to operate without significant disruption. As a result of the lockdown and other pandemic-related regulations, Tunisians have been forced to spend more time at home in 2020, spurring more frequen...
