Abstracts

While a growing number of adults are now working at home for at least one or two days during the week, most children are now back in nurseries and classrooms from morning until the afternoon, five days a week. As a result, children were not spared by the sudden peak of flu and respiratory ailments in winter 2022 and which continued during autumn 2022 and early 2023. They were also affected by the premature explosion of pollen which lasted until the summer which resulted in more allergies during...
