Abstracts

COVID-19 has a relatively low impact on the health of children and as a result value growth is expected to be minimal, in particular as many COVID-19 restrictions are still in place and there is less circulation of other ailments such as the common cold and flu. Many paediatric consumer health products remain undeveloped in Ukraine and are often represented by products targeting both adults and children, (as a number of cough remedies are). Most commonly parents opt for OTC products such as paed...
