Abstracts

In 2022, Argentina registered moderate growth of its GDP not only as a result of international factors but also local macroeconomic imbalances. Inflation is a global problem, but in Argentina it is chronic, with a double-digit rate since 2007 and an almost triple-digit rate in 2022, reaching 94.8%. In this context, purchasing power decreased significantly in 2022 with local consumers tightening their belts, and this set to remain the case in 2023.

Euromonitor International's Pet Care in Argentina report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the market at a national level.
