Abstracts

France's pet population remained relatively stable in 2023, albeit dropping slightly from the peak in 2022 as financial pressures took their toll and consumers looked for savings. When looking at dogs, small and medium-sized dogs remained the most adopted in 2023. Since the 1 January 2024, pet shops and superstores are no longer allowed to sell cats and dogs. This new law is designed to fight against early weaning of animals and to improve their health and wellbeing, and chances of making a good...
