Abstracts

Before the COVID-19 pandemic hit India, plant-based milk – which accounts for the entirety of unit volume packaging volumes in plant-based dairy – had been seeing dynamic year-on-year growth. However, the pandemic affected the availability of plant-based milk and also resulted in economic uncertainty, which negatively impacted demand for these higher-priced milk alternatives. While unit volume sales of plant-based milk packaging showed an improvement in 2021, they were still in decline, only ret...
