Abstracts

Total plant-based dairy packaging maintained growth in 2022, with increases across all categories, although slower rates of increase were seen than in the previous two years. In 2022, brick liquid cartons remained the most significant pack type for plant-based dairy products, used for plant-based milk, and also saw an increase in its pack type share, for a few reasons. This packaging is known for its excellent barrier properties, which help to protect plant-based milk from exposure to oxygen and...
