Abstracts

While premiumisation has demonstrated remarkable resilience in spirits, the inevitable slowdown is now underway. Discretionary spending is being scaled back, as a result of prolonged cost of living pressures, and the effects will become increasingly pronounced. Nevertheless, trends are not changing course entirely; core drivers of premiumisation are deeply embedded in demand, while moderation favours quality over quantity. How can brands enhance value in an unsettled world?

Euromonitor International's Premiumisation in Spirits: Aspiration and Adversity global briefing offers an insight into to the size and shape of the Alcoholic Drinks market in both the off-trade and the on-trade, it highlights buzz topics, emerging geographies, categories and trends as well as pressing industry issues and white spaces. It identifies the leading companies and brands by total volume, offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market - be they new product developments, packaging innovations, economic/lifestyle influences, distribution or pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and criteria for success.
