Abstracts

Growth in the US retail tissue and hygiene market has slowed down, as it is fairly saturated and highly competitive. The expansion of discounters in the market, along with the increasing share of private label and sales through e-commerce, have had a negative impact on unit prices. However, opportunity for growth still exists in certain categories, as well as through premiumisation and segmentation.

Euromonitor International's Pricing Pressures and Realities in the US: Impact of Discounters global briefing offers an insight into to the size and shape of the tissue and hygiene market, highlights buzz topics, emerging regions, countries and categories as well as pressing industry issues and white spaces. It identifies the opportunity zones within tissue and hygiene, analyses leading companies and brands, assesses the importance of private label and offers strategic analysis of major factors influencing the market - be they new product developments, economic/lifestyle/environmental influences, distribution or pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and criteria for success.
