Abstracts

After a disrupted couple of years due to the pandemic, processed meat and seafood packaging returned to a more stable performance in 2022, although volumes remained well above the pre-pandemic level. Processed seafood saw stronger growth in packaging volumes than processed meat in 2022. The growth in processed seafood packaging was attributed to changing consumer dietary preferences and a growing interest in seafood as a healthier protein option. Swiss consumers are becoming more health-consciou...
