Abstracts

Having surged in 2020 due to pandemic restrictions, retail volume sales of sauces, dips and condiments suffered something of a hangover in 2021 but demand remained well above its pre-pandemic level. Retail volume sales returned to growth in 2022—but only marginally. There was much stronger growth in retail constant value sales (2022 prices) due to growth in unit pricing. However, sauces, dips and condiments were less affected by inflation than many other types of packaged food in 2022.

Euromonitor International's Sauces, Dips and Condiments in Spain report offers in-depth knowledge of the market at a national level, providing local insight and understanding unavailable elsewhere. In addition to the latest retail sales data 2017-2021, it identifies the leading companies, brands and retail outlets, and assesses the key trends and demographic shifts behind consumer demand and sales growth. How key trends such as health and wellness, sustainability and recovery from the pandemic are shaping the market in directly informs our forecasts to 2026, clearly indicating how the market is expected to change.
