Abstracts

From 1 July 2022, tobacco heating devices have been facing the same regulatory conditions as combustible tobacco products. That means that there is an advertising ban and display ban in place for these products, a minimum age of 18 years to buy and use such devices as well as packaging stipulations, including the obligatory carrying of a health warning. This could have a negative effect on sales as, previously, Philip Morris Holland was able to advertise its tobacco heating devices, raising aware...
