Abstracts

This report explores growth opportunities for private label in tissue and hygiene. In mature markets like Western Europe and North America, private label's share is high, due to the structure of the retailing landscape, and manufacturers now have to focus on value-added innovations to find growth. In all other regions, however, private label's share is growing more rapidly, due to lower penetration levels and shifting economic conditions.

It identifies the opportunity zones within tissue and hygiene, analyses leading companies and brands, assesses the importance of private label and offers strategic analysis of major factors influencing the market - be they new product developments, economic/lifestyle/environmental influences, distribution or pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and criteria for success.
