Abstracts

In 2013, the number of inbound trips to the UK increased by 7% to 31 million, the highest level recorded over the review period; it has recovered the ground lost during the economic downturn and overtaken the peak level registered in 2007. Despite the London Olympics, 2012 was not a great year for inbound tourism as the number of trips rose by just 1%; however, the event served as a global showcase for London, which reaped the benefits in 2013 as the number of international tourists strongly...
