Abstracts

Traditional grocery retailers in Taiwan is mainly comprised of highly fragmented traditional markets, night markets, and independent grocery retailers. These traditional markets are called wet markets and they usually have high traffic, with customers who are mostly housewives and the elderly. These wet markets rely on individual vendors, many of which have been at the same stall for decades and had little knowledge about how to weather the pandemic, when consumers moved to shop at supermarkets.

Euromonitor International's Traditional Grocery Retailers in Taiwan report offers insight into key trends and developments driving the industry. The report examines all retail channels to provide sector insight. Channels include hypermarkets, supermarkets, discounters, convenience stores, mixed retailers, health and beauty retailers, clothing and footwear retailers, furniture and furnishing stores, DIY and hardware stores, durable goods retailers, leisure and personal goods retailers. There are profiles of leading retailers, with analysis of their performance and the challenges they face. There is also analysis of non-store retailing: vending; homeshopping; internet retailing; direct selling, as available.

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
