Abstracts

Growth in the transport and storage industry picked up in 2019, despite the uncertainty surrounding Brexit. The expansion of e-commerce remained the main driver of the industry's growth, as online sales continued to see surging demand. Nonetheless, some industries, such as water transport, remained vulnerable to a potential no-deal Brexit. The fears of disruption to cross-Channel freight traffic and lower freight volumes of medicines and other goods seriously damaged the industry's performance.
