Abstracts

While value-focused consumers have turned to discounters, hypermarkets and warehouse clubs to find the lowest grocery prices, high-income consumers are increasingly favouring upscale grocers. This polarisation has squeezed mid-priced supermarkets. Time-pressed shoppers are also making quick, fill-in shopping trips at convenience retailers, which have responded by growing their selection of groceries. These two trends - polarisation and convenience - are reshaping grocery retailing in the US.

Euromonitor International's Trends in US Grocery Retailing global briefing offers an insight into the size and shape of the retailing industry, highlights emerging trends, their effects on retailing in markets around the world, on the development of channels and consumers' shopping patterns. It identifies the leading companies and brands, offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market – be they the developments of new store types, the importance of non-store retailing, economic/lifestyle influences, private label or pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change and criteria for success.

Product coverage: Non-Store Retailing, Store-based Retailing.

Data coverage: market sizes (historic and forecasts), company shares, brand shares and distribution data.
