Abstracts

The Saudi population continued growing over 2018 with the urban population growing 2.1% during the year, thus stimulating demand for electricity as well as intensifying demand for water sanitation and other utilities. In fact, Euromonitor data indicate that residential consumption of electricity increased by 3.1% in 2018 to 25,350KWh per household annually. In line with the growing urban population, demand for other utilities such as sanitation and drinking water supply has also risen, driving d...
