Abstracts

In 2019, UK electricity consumption continued declining, given the Brexit-related economic slowdown, although rising residential and industrial energy prices provided some support for industry turnover. According to the Office of National Statistics (ONS), the average annual residential electricity bill rose by GBP38 in 2019, reaching GBP679. At the same time, consumption of electricity across both the residential and non-residential sectors dropped by 2% over the year, with a consequent negativ...
