Vitamins is set to continue to see stable growth in Singapore in 2023, with multivitamins expected to perform slightly better than single vitamins due to Singaporeans' preference for convenience and multifunctional products. At the same time, there continues to be strong demand for single vitamins, especially vitamins C, D, and E, given the common concerns around immune health, bone health, and skin health. While many Singaporeans get their vitamin D from multivitamins and combination dietary su...
