Abstracts

Wearables are expected to be the standout performer in 2023, registering double-digit volume growth and that is despite continuing high inflation and also significant currency devaluation, which is making imported products even more expensive. However, this growth is from a small base. These products are mainly purchased by affluent consumers, particularly those with a strong interest in sporting activities, although the availability of more affordable brands is supporting growth in volume terms.

Euromonitor International's Wearable Electronics in Nigeria report offers a comprehensive guide to the size and shape of the in-home, portable and in-car consumer electronics products markets at a national level. It provides the latest retail sales data, allowing you to identify the sectors driving growth. It identifies the leading companies, the leading brands and offers strategic analysis of key factors influencing the market- be they new product developments, distribution or pricing issues. Forecasts illustrate how the market is set to change.

Product coverage: Activity Wearables, Smart Wearables.
