Abstracts

Volume growth rates for all weight management and wellbeing categories in 2023 are set to surpass those recorded in 2022. The uptick is partly explained by the fact that many consumers in Taiwan gained weight during the recent period of lockdowns and home seclusion that resulted from the outbreak of COVID-19. Efforts to lose this excess weight quickly have since increased as people have returned to the office and started regularly socialising again following the easing of the pandemic and the en...
