Abstracts

Yoghurt has not been spared from the severe price increases that have characterised dairy in the UK. The increasing input costs, with commodities such as fertilisers, energy and animal feed, have slashed profit margins across the supply and production chains. As a result, players are passing on such increases to consumers in the form of higher retail prices. The highest increases were recorded by M?ller Dairy and Danone (for Activia) in 2022, recording respective price growth of 18% and 20%. In...
