Abstracts

The biopesticides market is projected to reach USD 15.66 billion by 2033, up from USD 6.87 billion in 2023, with an anticipated compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 16.25% from 2023 to 2033. This market segment within the agricultural industry focuses on eco-friendly pest management solutions derived from natural sources such as animals, plants, bacteria, and certain minerals. Unlike traditional chemical pesticides, biopesticides offer a reduced environmental impact and lower risks to human health. They are increasingly used in integrated pest management strategies due to their effectiveness against pests and diseases while preserving ecosystem balance. The market includes various types of biopesticides, such as microbial pesticides, plant-incorporated protectants, and biochemical pesticides. The growing consumer demand for organic and sustainable agricultural practices has driven the global expansion of this market, with North America, Europe, and Asia-Pacific being key regions for biopesticide adoption.
