Product Overview

Neobanks is a new kind in the financial world. They are a type of direct bank that is completely online with no physical branches which provide complete banking solutions to its customers. Neobanking offers everything a traditional bank has to offer from opening a bank account to money lending, money transfers, and much more. There are two kinds of Neobanks, first which have no banking license and partner up with a traditional bank such as Up bank in Australia which is partnered with Bendigo Bank, and second are neobanks with a full banking license of their own such as Xinja and Volt. Challenger banks are well-established businesses that have a full banking license to operate in the market. Lending, deposits & savings accounts, checking & merchant accounts, telephone banking, credit cards, mobile banking, and other services are provided by these banks. By innovating and incorporating several innovations into their product offerings, these banks are constantly challenging established conventional banks.
