Growth Factor

Rise in concerns regarding the safety of workers

Due to various growing concerns about worker safety in many industries, the protective gear industry is anticipated to increase. One of the main reasons for the increased adoption of surgical gowns across the world is the rising number of hospital-acquired infections (HAIs). In the next years, the segment's growth will be boosted by the rising incidence of chronic illnesses, as well as an increase in the number of total operations. Surgical gowns provide protection against a variety of diseases, contaminations, and fungal transmission.
