Abstracts

Clinical communication and collaboration (CC&C) systems coordinate activities and data flow between clinicians, nurses, physicians, and other medical professionals. Hospitals, ancillary care providers, and clinical laboratories can leverage CC&C solutions to reduce referral leakage and rate of readmissions, and ensure interoperability between systems. With a CC&C platform deployed, health care organizations and practices can maintain patient data, facilitate real-time collaboration, reduce inefficiency and gaps, achieve patient safety and satisfaction, and preserve profitability. According to market research study published by Gen Consulting Company, the global clinical communication and collaboration market stood at around USD 1,451 million in 2021 and is projected to rise to a worth of USD 3,499 million by 2028 end, thereby garnering a CAGR of 13.4% during 2022-2028.
