Abstracts

E-paper is an electronic display technology that mimics the appearance of paper. Using the same inks as the traditional printing industry, e-paper displays (EPDs) have tiny capsules filled with charged ink particles. When the proper charge is applied, an EPD creates highly detailed images with the contrast ratio and readability of printed material. As a bistable display technology, e-paper can be extremely low power, allowing it to be used in devices without the power budget of a traditional LCD display. Once the text and images of an EPD have been rendered no power is needed to maintain the display. The global e-paper display market was valued at USD 1,806 million in 2022 to USD 3,814 million by 2029, progressing at a CAGR of 11.3% from 2023 to 2029, according to the latest market study results.
