Abstracts

The global EV charging cables market is expected to increase by USD 1,856.7 million, at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 27.9% from 2023 to 2029, according to the latest edition of the Global EV Charging Cables Market Report.

This industry report offers market estimates of the global market, followed by a detailed analysis of the product, charging level, power supply type, jacket material, and region. The global market data on EV charging cables can be segmented by product: coiled cables, straight cables. The straight cables segment was the largest contributor to the global EV charging cables market in 2022. EV charging cables market is further segmented by charging level: level 1 (120 V), level 2 (240 V), level 3 (300-600 V). According to the research, the level 2 (240 V) segment had the largest share in the global EV charging cables market. Based on power supply type, the EV charging cables market is segmented into: alternate charging (?22kW), direct charging (?22kW). The alternate charging (?22kW) segment held the largest revenue share in 2022. On the basis of jacket material, the EV charging cables market also can be divided into: all rubber jacket, polyvinyl chloride (PVC) jacket, thermoplastic elastomer (TPE) jacket. Globally, the TPE jacket segment made up the largest share of the EV charging cables market. EV charging cables market by region is categorized into: North America, Europe, Asia-Pacific, MEA (Middle East and Africa), Latin America.

The global EV charging cables market is highly competitive. Some of the leading companies operating in the market are Aptiv plc, Brugg Group AG, Coroplast Inc., Dyden Corporation, Leoni AG, OSRAM GmbH, Phoenix Contact GmbH & Co KG, Prysmian S.p.A., Robert Bosch GmbH, Sinbon Electronics Co. Ltd., TE Connectivity Limited, Volex plc.

The data-centric report focuses on market trends, status and outlook for segments. With comprehensive market assessment across the major geographies, the report is a valuable asset for the existing players, new entrants and the future investors.
