Abstracts

Insulated concrete forms (ICFs) are a type of construction material that are becoming increasingly popular in the building industry due to their energy efficiency, durability, and ease of construction. Once the concrete has set, the walls become incredibly strong and durable, and the insulation provided by the EPS blocks helps to keep the building warm in the winter and cool in the summer, resulting in lower energy bills and a smaller carbon footprint. ICFs are also easy to work with and can be used to create a variety of building designs and styles. They are particularly well-suited for constructing buildings in areas prone to natural disasters, such as earthquakes or hurricanes, as they are very resistant to damage and can help protect a building from severe weather. The latest analysis predicts global insulated concrete form market will grow from USD 853.0 million in 2022 to USD 1,230.2 million by 2029, achieving a CAGR of 5.37 percent, according to the latest edition of the Global Insulated Concrete Form Market Report.
